Emily, RIP!! We weren't very close. I would see you here and there at gatherings/parties, and you were SUCH a joy to be around. Nice beautiful smile and a warm heart! Too bad that we didn't get a chance to be closer, you seem like you would have been a great friend to have! One of the last times I seen you, I think you came over to my house with a few people and at a pool party last summer. Its too bad Emily! I will pray for your family and daughter!!

I'm so very saddened to hear of the loss of Emily. I worked with her at Ventura MFG about a year and a half ago. She talked about her little girl all the time and was so proud of her. She was a hard worker and full of laughs. I'm sure Heaven is enjoying her laughter now. May the Lord carry you through this time of sorrow, comfort and heal you. God Bless your memories of her and may they stay clear and bring joy in the years days, weeks and years ahead. Again so very sorry for your loss!!

The first time we found out we were related was at your grandpa's funeral when we were like 14. We snuck out back and smoked cigarettes lol we were rebels :) we went to the same school and hung out from time to time. I will never forget your personality and energy you were always fun to be around and could cheer someone up. I will miss you

Em I remember when we had to re-do an old oldies song in Mr. Tayts class. We chose Going to the Chapel and we're going to get married....but instead we had to make it our own and we changed it to we were going to the chapel and we were going to get divorced. Instead of gee I really love you and we are going to the chapel and we are going to the chapel of love! Our words were Gee I really hate you and we're going to the chapel and we're going to the chapel of hate! we got a 100 % and we even made a tape recording of us to share to the class. We rocked it out girly and we were phenomental! I Love You for that I will never forget it! Love You Princess, see u on the other side! Love You Shannon Fredericksen.

Two aspects of Emily that I really enjoyed were her earnestness and her forthrightness. The first day of class this semester was a beautiful, sunny day. As I was approaching the Eberhard building Emily caught up with me and informed me that I was her professor for the next class. We proceeded into the building as she went on to relate that she really wanted to get some good experiences working with specific populations and did I know any organizations where she could volunteer in order to prepare herself for employment upon graduation. Entering the elevator we talked about the various volunteering she was already doing and how these experiences related to her goals. While walking the halls to the classroom I related some of my early social work experiences and how these had served me well in preparing for my career. Entering the classroom Emily said, "Thanks" and quickly found a seat. Emily didn't wait for class to start...she was always working to learn and make connections. I enjoyed her direct curiosity.
