Happy Mother's Day - my fourth without you. It seems like just yesterday you were here with us, yet it seems like a lifetime since I have seen you in person. I am surviving, but that's what you taught me . . . .be strong, and I am, on the outside anyways.Presley just turned 18 Mom - 18! He is such a good kid and SO HANDSOME! Unfortunately whenever he has a birthday I think of the year you came home and surprised me by showing up at his birthday party . . . again it seems like just yesterday but again feels like a lifetime ago.I struggle so much on this day, I want to be happy and everything for my kids and grandkids but it is really hard today because all I think of is you and what I would give to spend five minutes with you - today or any day of the year. I love you and miss you more than anyone knows. Until we meet again Mama Mari . . . letting it be.Shondra Vee

Three years ago today you left us Mama and nothing has been the same ever since. Don't worry, we are all getting by but it's so different without your smiling face. The grandkids are growing like weeds and I wish you were here to see how awesome they are. Presley is such a handsome young man and his girlfriend is a sweetheart, I wish you could have met her. Payleigh and Paige are thriving at their new school and doing SO well in sports. Paulie - so tall at age 8 - and SO talented. Jayson and Jullian are going into junior high already next year! You really don't probably remember Calvin, Kenna, Londyn but they are very beautiful children. And the baby Lawson, the one you never met is such a sweet and happy baby.I dread this day, December 21, and Christmas - well - it's just not Christmas without you. I put one foot in front of the other and get the shopping and decorating done because I have to for the grandkids but you are never far from my thoughts Mama.I miss you still every day and think of you at least once during every day, usually more. Until we meet again - letting it be as best as I can. I love you and miss you terrible Mama Mari!Love - Shondra Vee

I am going to put a smile on my face today and try to enjoy my family but underneath it all - very, very sad today.Happy Mother's Day in heaven Mama Mari - letting it be, until we meet again . . . .Love Shondra Vee

Just thought I would say Hi - you are on my mind even more than usual today and I don't know why. It's not an anniversary, or a birthday, or anything special, just a day when I can't stop thinking about how much I miss you. Grandkids are growing so fast Presley is going to be 17!!! I wish you could see him and how handsome he is and what a good kid he is you would be so proud. I know you really didn't know the younger ones, but they remember you. Londyn is going to be four already - at least you got to hold her a few times. New grandbaby coming in July and he will never know you which makes me sad! His name will be Lawson, and he is Korey's third son. Well, rambling here on my hotline to heaven, but it seriously helps. I know it's crazy to think you can actually read this but it makes me feel better so whatever. Letting it be until we meet again . . . love and miss you Mama Mari!

Two years today since you took your last breath - Lesli thought it was three because this is our third Christmas without you - I set her straight of course. I still can't wrap my head around this, it's sometimes easier to just pretend you are in Florida, or you can't talk to me on the phone because of the stupid Alzheimer's, but soon enough, reality sets in . . . Overall, I am doing better. I haven't cried yet today and it's almost 7:00 PM, last year on the 21st of December I was a basket case all day. It's all that strength you gave me and taught me maybe? I still love my new job, but I guess it's not really new anymore. I've been there almost a year and I love the people I work with and the things I am responsible for. Getting ready for Christmas, wrapping up the shopping, but of course Christmas will never be the same again, not since you left us four days before Christmas in 2014. Love and miss you mama Mari, letting it be . . . . until we meet again. We will have SO much to talk about . . . .

Hey Mama - It's time for our birthdays! Sadly I will turn 53 and you will not be here to turn 73. I got my memorial tattoo for you last week. I know you hated tattoos, but I think you would actually like this one - totally dedicated to you. I'm at work - still at my job that I know you guided me to. Full time now, benefits too and I still love coming to work - the drive is wearing on me, and winter is coming - UGH. Kids are doing well - all nine grandkids are too. And mama - I'm getting grandbaby number 10 in July. The first grandchild of mine to be born after you left. I know you didn't know the youngest very well - Londyn - but you got to hold her at least. This baby will not know you at all, but I will tell him/her all about you, I promise. I sure wish this would go away - this emptiness and everything, but people I talk to tell me it won't go away - so I have learned to live with it. I try not to cry when I think of you, but that is extremely difficult and I think of you every day. Hope you and Mike are doing well together, sometimes that's the only comforting thought. You have your Mikey . . . . Until we meet again . . . . Letting it be . . . . Shondra Vee

This day is always so hard for me Momma, I want to have a good positive day for all my grandkids and kids but on the other hand I want to lay in bed and cry all day, have a pity party for myself, and just wait until tomorrow to get up. I hope you know how much you are missed by all of us. I hope you know not a day goes by - still after nearly 17 months - that you are not thought of, spoken about, etc. I would give anything to talk to you - anything. Missing you still and wondering when this heavy heart will go away but I don't think that is ever going to happen. Until we meet again Momma Mari - Shondra Vee

Hi Grandma.....your obituary popped up in my Facebook memories. I know you don't know what Facebook is, but I think you would've loved it. I shared your obituary on my wall....and i have a copy of it laying in my room. I look at it everyday. But I've never read it until today. I don't feel bad that it took me so long anymore. Today, I'm sure was the day I was supposed to read it. I've been going through some stuff lately. Tough stuff, but I get it. I'm so different from you in some ways but in other ways identical. I get it now, I'm not as fast as learner as you or my mom.....but you knew I'd get it one day. I miss you. I miss you so much that it physically hurts sometimes. Even tho I haven't been able to talk to you on the phone in a LONG time.....the thought still crosses my mind to call you. I hate that you got sick.....I hate it. I can still barely talk about it. When Grandpa Mike passed away it was very hard to process. Half of me was devastated half of me was happy for you. I know your taken care of. You two amazed me. My kids are so old now. I know you would be so proud of all of them. Im proud of them like you were proud of me.....I get excited like you do. Lol, I just can't help it. I know we would have so much fun watching them now. My life is sooo different now without you here. You took a major part of everybody with you. At first, I wasn't so sure, but I will be okay ? we all will, youtaught us that.

The younger grandkids came over and wanted to come in and look around. Hard for them to understand that both of you are gone. They tiptoed through the house and just stared. Well, just wanted you to know that I thought of you on the 14th when you should have been here celebrating your 72nd birthday and I thought of you again on the 16th and you know why. The grand kids are growing, playing ball, Presley is racing motocross, which truthfully, I am glad you never had to witness. He loves it though, so scary as it is, we do it. He is points leader for his class!! Little Londyn, I know you never really knew her because of stupid Alzheimer's but she is two already!
