Experiencing the loss of a loved one is so devastating. When it is difficult for you to greet each day with the loss that has left you empty and numb, fill that void with all the wonderful memories you all shared. Allow yourselves to feel God's comfort and gentle encouragement that your mom is safe and her spirit will always be with you. Support each other and give each other strength. To Aunt Irma, It's hard to believe that your gone. I still think sometimes it is only a bad dream. Especially when I look at pictures of you. It seems like you should only be one call away. Then I realize that your not and I get sad all over agian. But I've been strong so far. Because that's what you would want. My mom tells me that your in a better place is right here with your family. She also said that you have family waiting for you in heaven already, so I know that your not alone. I want you to know that I Love You and I am going to be thinking of you all of the time.To Jesse, Herm, Robert, and Frankie, All of you guys are in my thoughts and prayers. I understand it's hard for you but you have the support of all your friends and family. We all lost a special person that was apart of our lives: A Mom, A Sister, A Grandma, A Sister, A Aunt, A Cousin, A Godmother and A Friend, but don't think of it as a loss of a great person, but think of it as God gaining another great Angel.##imported-begin##Mariah Summers##imported-end##
