I met Grandma Poulson when I married her grandson, Dale Vos. She was one of Dale's and mine favorite relative, along with Grandpa Poulson. After my divorce, we kept in touch, exchanging letters, especially at holidays. My two children always said she was thier favorite Grandma. Over the years, I thought about her, she was an amazing person. She was an independent person, living at home, until the last year or so. She left quite a legacy for the many generations of Poulsons, and will be missed by all who knew her. My prayers and thoughts will be with the family, as they go on without her.
