Sister, friend, confidant are not strong enough words to describe the close relationship I enjoyed with my friend Jessica. I catch myself mid text or mid messaging and the grief overwhelms. Jessica was always quick to comfort. She was an amazing listener with very simple sage advice. We shared together everything. There was no secret to private to share. No struggle to tough for us to encourage each other through. We helped each other not just emotionally but materialistic ally also which was significant as we are not wealthy people. From struggles with our mates to struggles with our weight the laughter flowed. Jessica loved her children and she loved my Grandson 1 year old River. Wether we were out and about running errands or taking the kids to the park Jessicas impact on my life left beautiful memories of the best friend and person could ever have. I am beyond blessed to have known Jessica and enjoy her company over the past two and a half years. I miss you much J bear. Hugs from Earth.Love ya,Graham CrackerAka Vickie Hillard
