God took you away from us way too soon Stacy. R. I. P. I grew up in the neighborhood with Stacy, we were close friends, but Stacy was close friends with all of you. He had friends everywhere. He was quite the popular kid in the hood and Dawn Gauthier (Stacy's mom) was always fun to hang out with. It was always Stacy, Willie & me. We were like the 3 stooges and man did we ever have a lot of fun, usually getting into trouble. I remember getting my knee busted fighting that Mexican Tony from Detroit that day he was beating the tar out of Stacy and I jumped in to help him. Tony had him by about 80 pounds and it wasn't right. So, I stepped up to stop him from beating Stacy to death but I was only 120 pounds and Tony sucker kicked my right knee totally backwards. Till this day my knee is still shot, but I saved your little red headed a#$. I'm going to remember all the good times we had, and tell everyone who reads this how good it was to be a friend of Stacy's. I hope someday I have the pleasure to meet Stacy's kids and see Cory, yeah, man I remember holding you in my arms when you were born, and now your grown up. God bless you Stacy thank you for all the memories you left with me. You were one of my best friends.
